Super Einstein Theory May Follow Experiments

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 30.—The world is on the threshold of a super-Einstein theory, a theory that will prove as startling and startling a comparison to the Einstein theory as that theory did in comparison to previously accepted views.

This statement was made today by Dr. Charles E. St. John, astronomer at the Mount Wilson Observatory, one of the world's greatest authorities on Einstein theory.

Dr. Dayton C. Miller, of Cleveland, president of the American Physical Society, threw a bombshell into the scientific world when he announced yesterday's session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that experiments which he

TS! OH-H! BUT PUBLICITY WORSE

Washington, Dec. 30.—From a warm fireside seat in a huge and ornate drawing room, amid the incommunicative and queenly old lady sat amazed at the furor she created when she wrote her thoughts about women's dress and cigarettes and let them be broadcast.

"I talked to some of my friends about it and they said that something certainly should be done about the way girls were dressing and carrying on," said Mrs. John B. Henderson, Washington's social arbiter. "So I wrote what I thought and showed it to a dinner guest one night who was a newspaperman. He said it was very nice and asked me if he could have the piece.

"I had no idea it would result this way" she said waving a trail arm. "Why, I get stacks of mail every day and every time I pick up a paper I see my name or my picture. It's terrible."

For years, though, Mrs. Henderson has been an advocate of some sort of reform. She is an ardent vegetarian and anti-tuberculosis advocate. She also is against the use of coffee and or any soft of stimulant and sleeps in the open. Every summer he goes to the clubbath to daily health classes at her home and provides tennis courts and swimming pools around the historic brown-stone castle where she lives. She is an ardent prohibitionist and recently destroyed her cellar and destroyed hundreds of bottles of rare old wines.

Mrs. Henderson is greatly worried over the younger generation. "I just don't see what they are coming to," she said. "The things they do and the things they say and the clothes they wear—oh!"

CANDLE TALK

AUTOISTS MUST GET TAGS BEFORE FIRST

Automobile owners will be allowed no extension of time after January 1, for the use of 1925 auto licenses, Dilver Belden, secretary, Greene County Automobile Club, announced Wednesday.

Some motorists have the idea they can operate their machines after January 1, for several days, until they purchase tags, according to Mr. Belden. This belief is erroneous, he says. Tags are meeting a ready sale at headquarters of the auto club.

Dr. F. W. Stanton will give a "candle talk" at the "Goodbye Service for the Old Year" at the First M. E. Church, Wednesday night at 7:30. One of the features of the program will be short talks from five members of the church on "The Best Sermon Our Pastor Preached During the Year." All members of the church are invited to this last service of the old year.

Shuts the Cold out!

AUTOMATIC RADIATOR SHUTTER

Nothing to remember
Nothing you can forget

In hot weather cooling is what your motor needs while in cold weather warmth is the essential thing. When Summer wanes, you can't just cover the front of your radiator, because after a short run overheating would soon burn up your motor.

What you need is to have the front of your radiator covered only until your motor is hot, and then just enough air let in to keep the motor hot without overheating.

It shuts out cold, therefore——improves carburetion—makes car run better —reduces dilution—eliminates motors worn out prematurely —prevents cold feet—makes Winter driving comfortable.

First cost is the only cost. For large radiators $28; for medium $25; for small radiators $22.50. Come in today and let us show you.

RELIEF PLANNED FOR RETIRED MINISTERS

More than fifty prominent ministers and laymen attended a meeting at Central Reformed Church, Dayton, Tuesday, to organize ministerial relief within the Reformed Church.

Short talks were delivered by several ministers and laymen including Horace Ankeney, Alpha, who chose as his subject, "The Layman's Viewpoint."

Organization of the state is in line with efforts to obtain Ohio's quota of $300,000 provided for ministerial relief. The entire fund sought by the denomination will amount to approximately $1,350,000.

It has been a practice in the Reformed Church to pension its aged and retired ministers but it has always been a meagre sum of $200 per year. A minimum yearly pension of $500 is sought.

GETS HEAVIER FINE FOR CONTEMPT AFTER ATTACK ON JURIST

Walter Smallwood, 37, Cedarville, who attempted to attack Probate Judge S. C. Wright Tuesday morning after being fined $10 and costs and sentenced to the Dayton Workhouse for six months for non-support, was given an additional fine of $50 and costs and had his sentence increased by ten days for contempt of court by Judge Wright Wednesday.

Smallwood became enraged over the sentence Tuesday and as the judge stepped from his bench, leaped from his chair and aimed a blow at the court with his fist. The judge, unassisted, ward off the blow and subdued the man, unassisted.

Although he had made threats to "get even" as he was led away to jail Tuesday, Smallwood had changed his attitude Wednesday and apologized for his misconduct. Judge Wright said he has no personal feeling in the matter but intended to preserve the dignity of the court—hence the fine and added sentence. He was inclined to be lenient.

Smallwood was arrested at his home in Cedarville Tuesday for non-support of his three minor children, who have been cared for at the County Children's Home for the past three years. He entered a plea of guilty to non-support.

GIRL SACRIFICED BY MOTHER TO HEAD OF ODD LOVE CULT

"The Rev." C. C. Poore, Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 30.—How a mother, a devoted believer in his teachings, gave her 12-year-old daughter to the pastor of an alleged love cult as a "sacrifice" and as a substitute for his wife, who had left him "for a younger mate," was bared with the arrest of "The Rev." C. C. Poore on the charge of violating the age-of-consent law.

"The girl's mother gave her to me," Poore declares. "What I have done is not against my own religious beliefs, it was all right with the girl's mother and I have prayed and been forgiven."

The mother refuses to prosecute the minister, saying that "she and God have forgiven him."

Investigation by juvenile court authorities revealed that the minister's wife left him on "command of the Lord," who charged her to "find a younger mate," she said.

The wife went to the widow and told her of the "divine command," records show. The widow, court records state, consented that her daughter supplant the wife, who took the girl to the home of the minister and there left her.

Neighbors learned of conditions of the house and notified authorities. The girl had been with the minister only a short time.

Physicians said that the girl had been maltreated.

Eight other children of the mother probably will be taken from her, juvenile court officers declared.

The fifth plane, downed at Deshler, Ohio, by a frozen gas line, will meet the others at Nashville. Major A. W. Robertson, flight commander who occupied this plane, hopped off in one of the three to leave Dayton today. He motored from Deshler.

OIL MERGER CAUSE FOR DISCUSSIONS

New York, Dec. 30.—Financial leaders here are anxiously watching the effect the half billion dollar consolidation of the Standard Oil of California and the Pacific Oil Company will have on the industry as a whole. Already reports are being circulated ed in the street that a consolidation of the Pan American Western Petroleum Company, controlled by Edward L. Doheny and the General Petroleum Company which distributes gasoline and other oil products on the Pacific Coast and which has extensive interests in Texas, Wyoming and Alaska, soon is to be effected.

One of the most discussed rumors is the prospective acquisition of the Associated Oil by the Texas Company. The Standard Oil-Pacifi combine will force a distribution of the associated stock soon which is certain to bring about a shift of those in control, it was said.

MEXICAN INDIANS FIRST MUSICIANS

Dayton, O., Dec. 30.—"European music was not the first music in America, Miss Lota M. Spell, librarian of the Garcia Library University of Texas, Austin, Texas, told the Music Teachers' National Association in convention here today.

"Long before Columbus set foot on American soil or the Spanish missionaries entered Mexico, music was well developed among the inhabitants of the valley of Mexico," Miss Spell said.

Miss Spell said the ancient Mexicans used music, like the Europeans, not only for religious rites, but also for recreation and inspiration.

The instruments used by the Aztecs consisted of two varieties of drums, Miss Spell declared. In addition they also had flutes and tambours which were used during the funeral ceremonies.

Dancing was also taught and practiced by the early inhabitants of Mexico, Miss Spell continued. The dances done in honor of the gods were led by trained leaders and that these be well performed was essential.

"Little did these Indians dream that the love of the music which they fostered was to be the means by which their conquerors were to lead them to enforced acceptance of Christianity and abject submission to a Spanish king," Miss Spell concluded.

MODISH MITZI—Mitzi Goes to the Movies

Mitzi enjoys the movies, especially this sort. "Two piece dresses are still quite the smartest thing for the South, aren't they Polly?" she whispers and then gazes in admiration at the pleated and painted dresses on the screen.

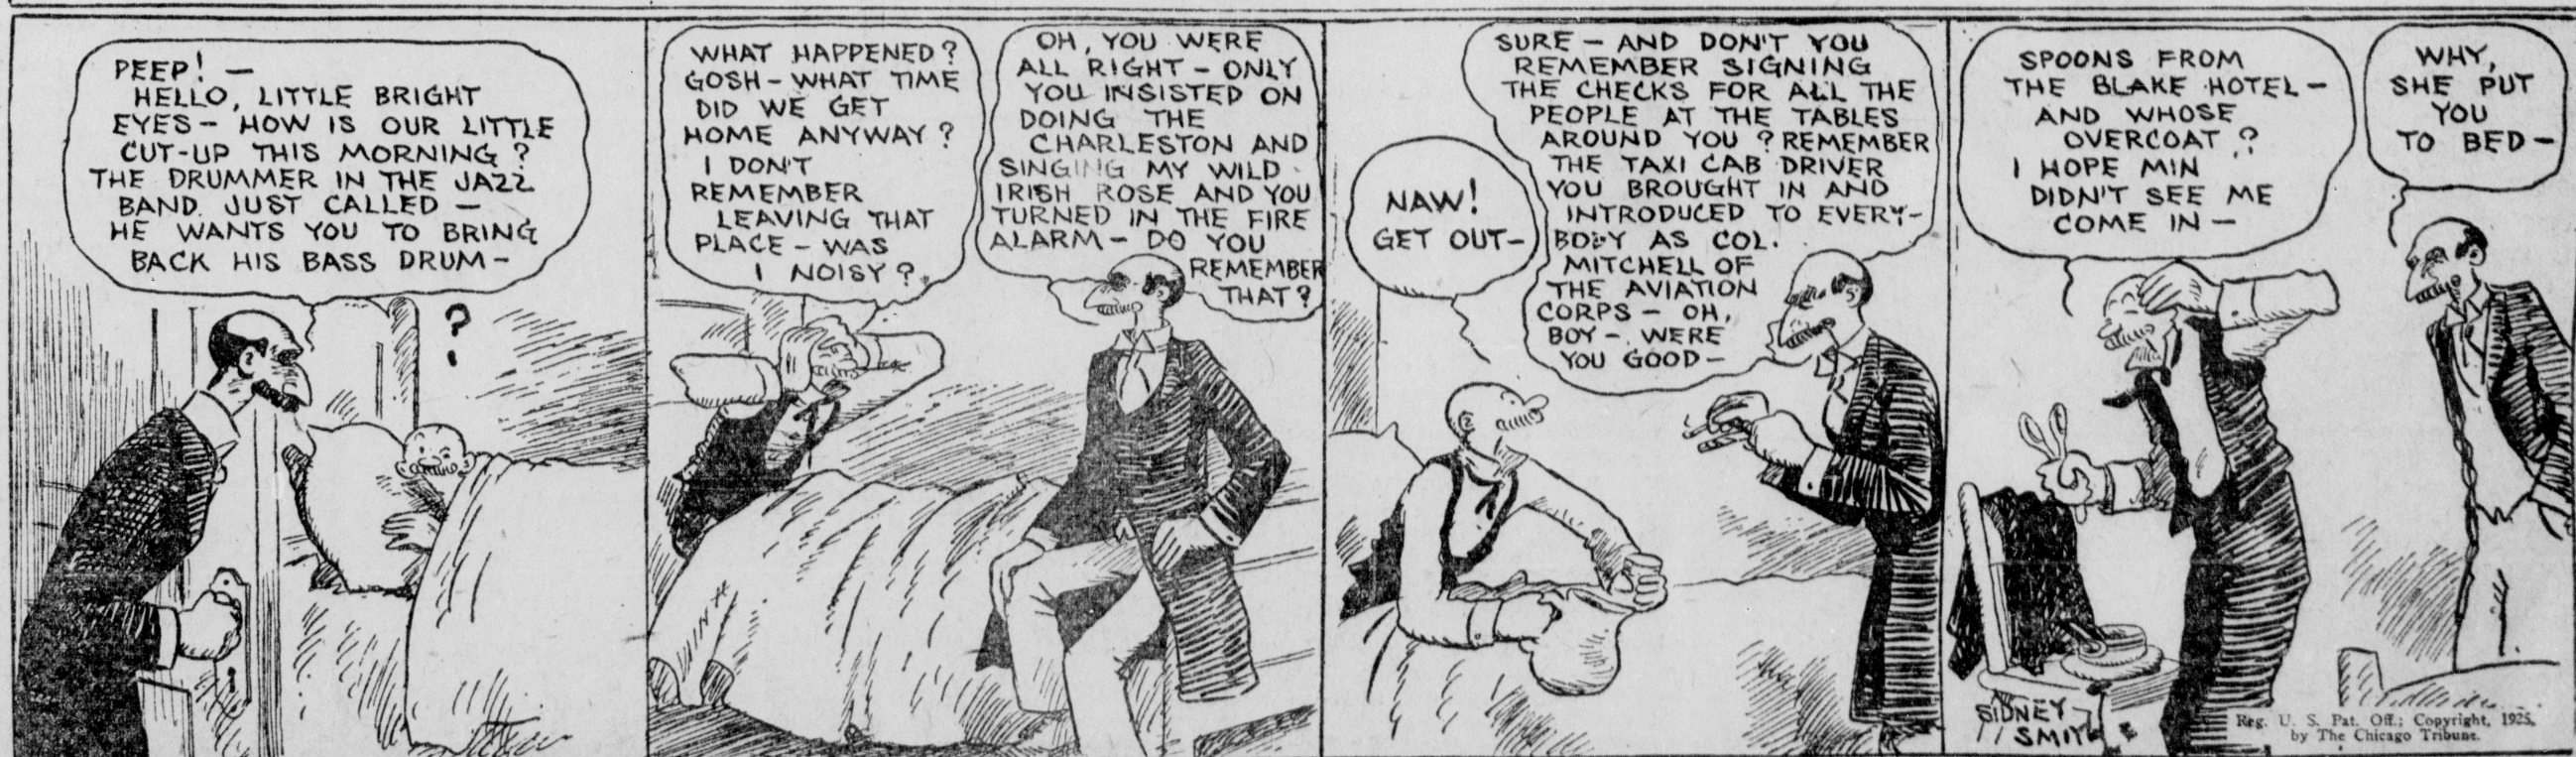

And this is, not Paris, but France somewhere, or is it? Biarritz, anyway. And there are still little two-piece frocks and cape dresses of light silks and high collars and long sleeves, and pleats and pleats!

The knitted jumper with the silk skirt quite entrances Mitzi. Polly votes for the silk frock made in two piece frocks and cape dresses of the cloth beneath. And surely that is the sunniest of skies... they sigh in chorus.

But there will be no Southern skies for Mitzi for a while. She still has a few thousand letters offering names for her doll to read. And she is working at it too—though you might not think it as you see her now.

ALASKA'S DETERIORATION.

THANKS to the moving pictures, the American public feels itself quite familiar with Alaska and few people desire closer acquaintance than the screen versions afford. But Alaska constitutes an enormous area under the Stars and Stripes. It is of imperial extent and the natural wealth it contains should be a satisfaction and deep concern of this country.

Yet Secretary of the Interior Work asserts the territory is rapidly becoming a "lost province," which he explains on the ground that opportunity for expansion has been curtailed by bureau officials made hesitant by limited authority. The white population at one time was 75,000; now it is estimated at 20,000. Production from its natural resources once was carried on enthusiastically and to the enrichment those engaged in the work; it is not so now. Alaska for a time was a popular touring ground. The number of visitors has declined.

This deterioration ought not to be permitted. Our reputation for progressiveness should be maintained in Alaska and elsewhere under the flag. The government has poured many millions of dollars into Alaskan development enterprises which have degenerated into national liabilities. A change of plan clearly is in order if constructive work is to go on. Congress should consider the adoption of a program that will save Alaska.

THE JAPANESE AT MUKDEN.

CONSIDERING meteorological and political conditions, the Chinese are doing their best with their war. When it rains they can't fight, and when they get too close to foreigners who have entered the country and staked out claims, they are told to go elsewhere to do their fighting. War under such conditions, and especially when nobody knows who's who and what's what, is a discouraging affair.

The Japanese have found it necessary or advisable to strengthen the garrison at Mukden, stationed there primarily for the defense of the South Manchurian railroad and have warned both Chang Tso-lin and his chief adversary, General Kuo, to keep their military effectives at least six miles away from the city. Chang is playing an "at home" game and seems to stand a very good chance of losing it, and possibly the Manchurian, if not, indeed, the Chinese pennant. Kuo, pressing ardently for victory, cannot drive too hard without taking a chance on stirring up the Japs in the grandstand and having them send in some pinch hitters.

The war is becoming more and more a Chinese puzzle. Chang, said to be the right-hand man of the Japanese, Feng, who is said to be receiving the aid and comfort of the Soviets, and Wu, said to be the favorite of the British, have a lot of work cut out for them. When it is finished the victor probably will find, because it was necessary to protect foreign interests, that he is not better off than the vanquished.

There are too many foreign fingers in the pie and too many alien irons in the fire to permit any Chinese leader or party to reap entire success or long enjoy what gains are won.

JOYS OF WALKING.

PUBLIC attention has been diverted to the business or art of walking by the hike of a wealthy sportswoman from Providence to Boston, a distance of forty-four miles, in a trifle more than eleven hours. The word "diverted" is used advisedly in this connection because the American people for some years have walked little and about walking have thought less.

With Miss Eleanor Sears, this modern exponent of pedestrianism, walking is an art and not a business. The ease with which she traversed forty-four miles on foot is explained by that line of Pope:

"Those move easiest who learn to dance."

Thoreau and Walt Whitman, like Miss Sears, walked for the sheer joy of it, not for any health-giving exercise they might derive from it. The companionship or meditating solitude, the scenery, the physical exertion, the fresh air, the mystery and romance "over the hill" give walking in the open country for long distances its charm and chief merit.

Since the popularization of the automobile and the extension of street car and bus lines, there has been a standing complaint among physical culturists, family physicians and those who have neither an automobile nor other means of transportation between home and place of employment that half the ills of the nation are due to lack of exercise among non-walkers.

Possibly there is some truth in the prediction that the nation must walk more or deteriorate physically, but a reversion to walking-shoes and stick can not be achieved by any such attempts to arouse individual concern for health. A few quotations from Thoreau, Whitman and other immortal pedestrians will convert more persons to the religion of walking than a year's output of prescriptions and health programs of doctors and physical culture experts.

Simple jelly sandwiches, cream cheese sandwiches, or marmalade sandwiches, are great favorites, and some such cake as the following may be cut into small squares and served at the same time.

Spice Cake: Mix together five tablespoons of soft lard and one and one-half cups of dark brown sugar; add two eggs, one-half cup of cold water and one cup of raisins, and beat well before stirring in one and three-quarter cups of pastry flour mixed and sifted with three teaspoons of baking powder, one teaspoon of ground cinnamon, a pinch of ground cloves and a pinch of salt. Beat well again, turn into a buttered pan measuring eight by eight inches, and bake for 45 minutes in a moderate oven. Frost with uncooked white icing when the cake is still hot (recipe given yesterday).

NEW YEAR'S CALLS

The quaint old-fashioned custom of making calls on New Year's Day is still in use among folk who have sentiment for the ways of our forebears. The alert housekeeper will be prepared for such visitors on Friday next by having her tea-cups in readiness and a supply of sandwiches on hand.

And I hope, Reader Friends, that if you do not happen to own a fine china tea set, you will not feel that you are not in a position to serve afternoon tea. One of our number has written: "I long to be able to give my friends a cup of tea, now and then, but my china is just cheap imitation Willow pattern and I am ashamed."

This poor little Bride Reader did not realize that willow pattern can be made charmingly attractive, even for guest use, if accompanied by linen in keeping. Fine white monogrammed linen napkins would indeed throw the willow pattern into unfavorable contrast. But the quaint new blue-and-white glass towel napkins, which are having such a vogue, would blend themselves into a little sympathy with the willow cups and saucers. T.M.'s ordinary glass taweling is not expensive and it is not hard work to make the fringe around the small napkins, nor to fill in one of the white squares with a solid block of the simple "darned" stitch in blue to match the blue of the dish-towel. An oblong cloth the same size as the tea tray could be made of the same material, thus carrying out the all-blue-and-white idea of the tea service.

EXTRA THOUGHT

Of course there are those among the sons of men who are born geniuses.

But the biggest part of genius is being born with the urge to work, to investigate, and to carry things through.

It's getting well started—and then going right on, turning neither to the right nor the left—and knowing in your heart, through a message from your brain, that you are going to win out.

It's the extra thought that puts across the extra man.

And so with development. A plan is flashed before your mind's eye. You have immediate reactions. A decision is registered. But not any too well on its own legs. You think again. The extra thought brings out the features. You know your man. You act with a surety.

These extra thoughts are our errand boys. They bring back our suggestions from powers higher up and help us to be strong men ourselves.

The extra thoughts early in life put us on our right road.

And when we are on our right road, these extra thoughts again render us service by fitting us for our destination itself.

As they say when one is in anger that it always pays to count ten before making a move or saying any thing, so does it always pay to hesitate and take extra thought on all important questions of life.

In going forward you always break new ground, but in going backward you merely retrace.

To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Saves about $2

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and sugar.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good, and tastes very pleasant. You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs. Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

IV—A LOVER'S QUARREL

SEEING Tom standing there glowing as he suddenly having someone throw a bucketful of cold water over her.

"A friend of yours?" Jerome asked casually, pretending not to notice her nervousness.

"My fiancée," Sally murmured, and Jerome just smiled understandingly as he said, "And he is very jealous, isn't it so? But you look so enchanting tonight, he could not be displeased with you. Not to him to come in and we will excuse ourselves and leave you two to talk. Good luck and happiness, my little partner."

But Sally, frantic with fear that Tom might go away, got up from the table and without even saying "Good night" to Jerome hurried out to him.

"I hardly expected this," Tom said bitterly, as though he had caught her in some terrible deceit or wrongdoing. "I thought you were working late and that it might please you if I came to call for you. Thought maybe we could stop in at that little chop suey place or somewhere and have something to eat and a dance. A lot that will mean to you now."

"Oh Tom, Tom,"—Her voice pleaded for a chance, but he wouldn't stop to hear any explanation.

"A fellow's a fool to work and work and save every cent he earns hoping to make a good home for a girl when all she wants is to gad around with some notorious lounge lizard. How am I to know how long this has been going on?"

Tom stopped only because he seemed to run out of breath and ideas at the same time.

"Let me explain. There was a cold finally in Sally's voice that brought Tom to his senses. "Of course, I enjoyed dancing with Jerome. What girl wouldn't be delighted and flattered at the chance. But I didn't do it just because I enjoyed it. I did it because it was a favor to the management of the hotel. You've said yourself that I owed them a great deal."

Sally had led him into a little writing-room off the lobby where they could argue undisturbed by the amused glances of passersby, and there Tom subsided into a chair and just stared moodily at the floor.

"Oh, can't you understand, Tom? Nobody means anything to me but you. This was just a pleasant adventure, and you are my whole life. I wouldn't have done it if I had known how angry you would feel, but they needed someone in such a hurry and Jerome had danced with me and said I could—"

Tom jumped to his feet. "So he had danced with you, had he? I suppose that was some other evening when I thought you were working late. Only one man that I particularly asked you not to associate with, and out of the whole wide world you pick him to go dancing with."

Sally prayed inwardly that she could keep from flying off in a temper and saying things that she would regret afterward. She must keep cool, she must! Their whole future depended on it.

"I must go upstairs," she told him, "to change into my own clothes and when I come back I hope that you will have thought things over and looked at the situation a little more sanely. Oh, I can't bear to have anything come between us," she sobbed suddenly, her voice breaking in spite of her efforts to speak coolly.

A smile of tenderness illumined Tom's face. "My sorry I spoke so harshly, dearest," he said. "Run along and get into your own things and we'll go. I was so happy over having good news to tell you that I couldn't stand it when I came in and found you so happy with that

M'GRAW FEARS PITTSBURGH AND ST. LOUIS MOST HE TELLS FARRELL

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

New York, Dec. 30.—Pittsburgh and St. Louis are the clubs New York will have to beat to win the National League pennant, according to John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants.

"We all know," he said "what a fine, hustling young ball club the Pirates are and with the experience and confidence that comes to a world's champion, they should be all the better next season.

"The Cardinals are a youthful club with a tremendous attack and good spirit. If Roger's Hornsby gets some good pitching and he is able to land another experienced hurler, his club will be most formidable. The Cincinnati Reds have fine pitching but they lack the punch of the Pirates and the Cards and the club is not well balanced. A good first baseman would help the club go a long way.

"As far as the Giants are concerned, I certainly think that they are going to be very much. The club is comparatively young and has experience with its youth.

"If there is any equality in breaks we ought to have better luck next season as we had all the bad breaks

CHIEF OF FOOT BALL LEAGUE PUNISHES OFFENDING CLUBS

Columbus, Dec. 30.—President Joe F. Carr, of the National Football League has meted out stiff penalties to the Milwaukee and Chicago Cardinal Clubs, found guilty of violating league rules by permitting four Milwaukee High School boys to play in a game at Chicago, December 10.

The Milwaukee club was fined $500 and ordered to dispose of its franchise. The Cardinals were fined $1,000 and placed on a year's probation.

In addition Carr suspended the Pottsville, Pa., Club from the league for violating the territory of the Philadelphia Yellow Jackets, and assessed a fine of $500.

The Milwaukee Club is given ninety days in which to sell its franchise. Thereafter the charter will be automatically forfeited, Carr declared. In addition the game, which was won by the Cardinals has been stricken from the records. Player Foltz, of the Milwaukee Club, whom Carr accused of inducing the high school boys to play on the Milwaukee team, was forever barred from playing professional football.

Carr's action against the Pottsville club is virtually a franchise forfeiture, he said. The club's alleged rule violation occurred December 12, when Pottsville played in Philadelphia.

In imposing the penalties, Carr said a careful investigation of the Milwaukee-Cardinal game, notwithstanding the fact that the high school boys did not receive compensation, disclosed the Milwaukee Club had violated all league provisions.

In banishing Foltz, Carr held Foltz was directly responsible for misleading the youths into playing. The clubs and Foltz have no recourse as the league has no appeal board.

ROSS TWP. TOSSERS DEFEAT FAIRVIEW HIGH TEAM 14 TO 12

Ross Twp. High School court team, contenders for the Greene County Basketball Association League championship, won a hard earned victory over Fairview High, Dayton, by a score of 14 to 12 in an overtime struggle Tuesday night at Jamestown.

The teams were well matched. Ross held a narrow lead of 8 to 7 at the half but Porter tied up the game in the second half for the Dayton quintet with three sensational baskets from mid-floor, forced the game into an extra period.

COURT OPPONENTS DRAFT NEW PROGRAM

Washington, Dec. 30.—The Senate irreconcilables are spending the holiday recess in drafting a number of new and more drastic reservations to alter the world court resolution when discussion is resumed in the senate next Monday, it was learned today.

While President Coolidge renewed his efforts for peaceful solution of the problem by having Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, his leading adversary in the court fight, down to the White house for dinner, the activities of Borah's forces on Capitol Hill went on without interruption.

Borah declined to discuss the dinner conference but it is understood the two talked over important international questions besides the world court—the sudden, unexplained return of John J. Pershing from Africa where he has been acting as arbitrator in the Chile-Peru boundary dispute and the reaction which has come to the league of nations disarmament conference.

Not Possible To Classify

By Mack Sauer

A few jottings of the day by Samuel Pepys, Jr.: Between two and three in the morning was waked with the crying of cats in my back yard, so rose and looked out, and it was dreadful, and strange apprehensions in me of being set on by a wild cat, mightily frightened. Unable to sleep, up and to see if any broadcasting stations on or no, and got nothing but howls.

Bought some magazines for my wife, which I will read myself with much pleasure, but for which she cares nothing.

This morning comes a workman and brings me my chair, varnished by him, and upholstered, which is indeed very fine, though not as fine as I expected; however pleases me exceedingly. This makes two antique pieces I have, a fad which is taking hold on me, but which I pray will not get me to spending foolishly for old traps, as do many collectors.

This day my "Iron Horse" will not start whether because of not getting enough "feed," or whether flooded, I know not, and care not a rap, preferring to walk on such cold days, so drained the radiator and called a neighbor to take me up the street in his car, a much finer and better one than mine.

In the late evening washed my head in water from the river, it being much softer than that in the pipes. And so after much drying before the fire, read some argument of ministers, one saying "there is no hell," the other answering "the hell there ain't," very funny. And so late to bed with prayers.

POLICE COURT WILL PASS THURSDAY AND MAYOR TAKE OFFICE

Xenia's eight-year-old Municipal Court will cease to exist other than in memory after Thursday, December 31.

The tribunal, presided over by Judge E. Dawson Smith since it was originated January 1, 1918, was abolished under an amendment to city charter last November and replaced by the old form of mayor's court, which will begin functioning Friday.

The mayor's court, presided over by the mayor of the city appointed by City Commission, will in reality have all the characteristics of a police court under a different name with the exception it will be ruled by a mayor instead of a judge.

Xenia is forced to return to the mayor's court because the state supreme court has decided the municipal court was established illegally.

Judge Smith has practically completed closing up the books of the year's business and everything is in readiness for his successor.

City officials regret the passing of the police court which in their opinion has served the city well, and have expressed the hope Xenia may return to this tribunal by an act of legislation at some time in the future.

FRIEND OF RILEY TALKS TO KIWANIS

Insight into the personal, every-day life of James Whitcomb Riley, famous Hoosier poet, was afforded Xenia Kiwanians by C. L. G. Breene, merchant-tailor, Dayton, O., life-long friend of the poet, at the Goody Shoppe, Tuesday night.

Mr. Breene and Riley played together, grew up together and conducted their courtships in the same company. Mr. Breene told the club. The two men kept in touch with one another until Riley's death. Mr. Breene quoted a number of Riley poems, interspersing his talk.

Mr. Breene, prominent tailor in Dayton for many years, told some humorous situations arising in making clothes for Riley. Ida M. Tarbell, in writing for the Atlantic Monthly after the death of Riley referred to his alleged eccentricities of dress and said that Riley always sought out some obscure tailor who would make his clothes as he wanted them.

"I am that obscure tailor," laughed Mr. Breene.

AMERICANS IN GRIP OF BARGAIN COMPLEX SPEAKER DECLARES

Present day tendency to hunt bargains, not only in business but in education and religion as well, was declared by the Rev. Charles Francis Potter, recently minister of the West Side Unitarian Church, New York City and now Executive Secretary of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, in an address at the Xenia Rotary Club, Tuesday noon.

"Many people today have been bit by the bargain bug," the Rev. Mr. Potter declared. "They go miles out of their way to get an article for a few cents less, often finding afterward that it is of inferior quality. A woman saw an advertisement offering 'Twelve Useful Articles of Household Furniture for Fifty Cents.' Her husband warned her, 'to no avail. She sent the half-dollar and received by return mail a dozen white wood clothespins, which she could have bought for a nickel at the five-and-ten cent store."

"Her husband laughed at her, but when he saw an advertisement 'How To Get Rich For Fifty Cents,' he replied and all he got was a little printed slip of six words—'Fish for suckers like we do.'"

"Every time you try to get something for nothing, you will pay something for nothing. When you turn down good solid five per cent investments for glittering schemes promising ten and even thirty per cent return, you are likely to find yourself in the possession of some beautifully engraved certificates, not worth the paper they are printed on," the speaker went on to say.

"As true in education as in business,—young people expect something for nothing—hoping to get a liberal education in three months' short-cut courses, with a diploma handed out to them with free lunch, and trading stamps."

"This modern bargain-complex has even invaded the spirit of religion, so that some expect a corner lot in Heaven for twenty-five cents down and twenty-five cents a week in the collection plate. Some even take out their religion in their wife's name," he declared.

"Proper attitude in business, education and religion is to give something for nothing—extra service, extra interest for the benefit of the other fellow. I believe in Rotary because I like the motto 'Service.' Intellectual self-giving must finally save the world," was the Rev. Mr. Potter's closing statement.

Donation by the Rotary Club of $100 to the Social Service League for Christmas work, was reported at the meeting.

Two new members, Frederick Anderson and J. B. Bice, were received by the club.
